

SERVICE OFFERINGS

❑ International Message Telecommunications Service

International Message Telecommunications Service consists of the furnishing of switched message telephone service between the Company's operating centers in the United States and international locations. Such service is available twenty-four (24) hours a day, seven (7) days a week.

The Company's customers may place calls from any location in the United States. Customers will be charged for calls based on the foreign destination and other factors identified herein and, unless otherwise specified, the location of the Company's operating center does not affect the charge for the call.

Explanation of Rates for International Message Telecommunications Service

The rates for the Company's International Message Telecommunications Service may depend upon the length of the call, the time period in which the call is placed, the class of service applicable to the call, the international location to which the call is terminated, and in some cases specified herein, the airline distance between the Company's operating center from which the call was originated and the city in which the call is terminated. All calls will originate from the exchange closest to the calling party's physical location. The vertical and horizontal coordinates for that exchange and the airline distance will be determined according to the V&H Coordinate table as used on an industry wide basis. Where rate periods apply, calls which overlap rate periods will be charged according to the rates applicable to the time recorded in each period. Calls are billed in one minute increments. The following charges, in U.S. dollars and cents, apply for International Message Telecommunications Service to the countries or areas listed in the rates section. Where applicable, additional minute rates apply to each minute or fraction thereof beyond the initial period.
